An American deep-sea submersible, engaged in research and exploration of the ocean floor, has the terrifying experience of the ship ascending out of control to avoid an undersea mountain. The vessel reaches surmounting heights at which it's nothing but air in all directions before righting itself. One crew member is haunted by his wife's death in a tragic accident many years earlier, while another begins to go mad from his guilt over hurting a man when he was not supposed to be on duty.

The group is shocked when they come across a Chinese naval vessel with all hands lost. When the undersea volcano the Seeker is exploring begins to show signs of eruption, the crew are forced into a race for survival against both the rising lava levels and the growing hordes of sharks in the surrounding waters.
